Company: SeatGeek

Location: Israel

Category: other-general

SeatGeek believes live events are powerful experiences that unite humans. With our technological savvy and fan-first attitude we're simplifying and modernizing the ticketing industry.

We are looking for an information security professional to lead our application security program. As a Senior Application Security Engineer, you'll partner with product teams to help improve the security posture and design of both our enterprise and consumer-facing products.

You'll be part of a team developing a modern AppSec program with a highly automated approach to security coupled with a collaborative approach to working with Engineering partners. You'll be operating in a fast paced, agile environment, with a goal of making security a key part of the product. It is a great opportunity to apply your years of AppSec experience in making SeatGeek products secure by default. As a foundational member of this team, you will have a huge impact on the product roadmap, and in building a trusting relationship with the engineering community.

What you'll do

Provide security guidance to engineering teams on new products and technologies

Taking ownership and driving the application security and privacy initiatives

Perform threat modeling and architecture review on upcoming features and products

Perform regular security assessments through penetration testing and code reviews of SeatGeek products

Encourage and train developers in secure coding practices

Develop security features in our product and scale security tools and processes through automation

Protect SeatGeek from bot attacks by tuning our edge protection and implementing app level protections

Continuously improve the Application Security Program and actively take part influencing its roadmap

Who you are

You've worked in an AppSec role and have a solid understanding of security fundamentals

You're proficient in one or more coding languages (Python, C#, Go) i.e you can code and perform security code reviews

You're experienced in working with highly technical engineering teams

You have performed threat modeling and architectural review for years

You like bug hunting and penetration testing (bonus points if you share your Bugcrowd/HackerOne profiles)

Experience in AWS is a plus

Experienced contributing to the security community (public research, blogging, presentations, etc.)

Additionally

If you are interested in the role, please include an English-language resume or CV with your application

Perks

Equity stake

Flexible work environment, allowing you to work as many days a week in the office as you'd like or 100% remotely

Paid vacation

Medical and dental reimbursement

Life Insurance

Pension & Educational Fund

Travel allowance

Meal allowance

Annual subscription to Headspace

Annual subscription to Spotify, Apple Music, or Amazon Music
