Overview

Senior Software Engineer - Azure Monitor

offers observability into your applications and infrastructure running on Azure or outside of it. It is a portfolio of massive scale platforms and solutions to monitor the health and performance of your systems and applications across the stack (IaaS, K8s, PaaS, SaaS and all types of clients) and surface actionable insights.

The Alerts team in the Israel R&D center is responsible for the Alerting scenarios in Azure Monitor. Our platform is an essential tool for Azure customers, offering advanced monitoring and alerting features on their products and systems. We use the most cutting-edge cloud technologies to develop micro-services that handle backend processing at Internet scale. We are dedicated to giving Azure users a high-scale, highly reliable alerting platform that achieves excellent performance with very low latency.

We face many challenges – building services at that scale involves the biggest challenges in the software industry which requires proficiency and innovation. We are looking for a strong software engineer to join us with building an amazing alerting system that operates on an Internet scale and enterprise grade!
